AGUINALDA AGAIN REPORTED DEAD

His Body, Guarded By Two of the Insurgents, Seen Floating Down the River on a Raft.

Special to the Journal.

MANILA, May 31.-It is believed by Major Peyton that Aguinalda may be dead. Peyton's scouts came upon the supposed body guard of Aguinalda north of Cagayan Valley. The insurgent officer was thrown from his horse and carried off by comrades. The saddlebags contained Aguinalda's personal papers. The next day an outpost of the Forty-ninth volunteers reported that a raft containing a body and guarded by two soldiers floated down the river, but the swift current prevented its capture.

A Fortune Paid for a Mine.

Special to the JOURNAL.

PXOENIX, Arz., May 30.—The Congress mine, the largest gold producer in Arizona, was sold today to John Mackay and Warner Miller for $1,500,000. It has been yielding profits of $75,000 yearly. The shaft is to be sunk to the 5,000-foot level, through an apparently inexhaustible supply of rock richer than any yet taken out.

THE GRAND FINALE.

The Commencement Ball a Fitting Close to a Happy College Year.

"And music arose with its voluptuons swell, while dark eyes spake love to those that looked the same, and all went merry," as only a commencement ball can.

This very last function of the class of 1900 was a fitting close to a happy distributed to Grace Watterson, Emily college career. From every point in Nevada came friends of the graduates to indulge in, or witness, their farewell

Over two hundred couples promenaded in the intricate figures of the grand march. No picture or scene can equal an array of college men and women marching in this preliminary parade of a commencement ball.

The gowns were elaborate, far and for Carson away above the powers of description out timbering. of a male reporter. Sufficient to say that some were more beautiful than Senator Livingston has received others, while all were elegant enough to satisfy the desire of most any co-ed.

Twenty-four dances, encored freely, kept the merry makers flitting lightly o'er the smooth floor till way early this morning. From the opening bars of the grand march until the echoing refrain of "Auf Wiedersehen," the seniors' ball was every thing that could be appropriate for their last leave taking of Alma Mater.

More About Wedekind Mine

The Wedekind mine is common talk about town. Every one is interested in the topic, yet no two men can be found who agree upon the why and wherefore of this rich gold and silver deposit. The stuff is queer that is extracted from the prospect holes, and the reasons advanced for its being there are queerer still.

Some declare there is a deposit of eilver chloride, a kind of cyanite, which can only be accounted for in the following manuer: "A spring of water flowing over or through silverbearing ore takes up a solution of chloride of silver, and scaping through a crevice is acted upon by some formation in the country rock which replaces the silver in the water." This theory is chattered when the fact is made known that chloride of silver is not soluble in water. To listen to the various theories is confusing, and one will have to satisfy bimself in agreeing with all by disputing none.

Nevertheless, the Wedekind mine is a rich one. It may be termed a poor man's claim, in that no great outlay of money is necessary in working the mine. The ore is free milling and solid enough to enable tunneling with-

Sheepmen Out of Town.

The corridors of the Palace and Arcade hotels do not seem natural these days. The usual groups of stock and sheep men do not collect thereabouts, for the good reason that they are attending to flocks and herds on distant ranges.

After the wool clip has been sacked up, we may look for the return of this class of men. With their reappearance the streets will take on a brisker aspect, and the hotel men will rejoice thereof.

Queer Cards of Shrewd Lawyers. Not all men of the legal profession are content with the severe inscription on their cards to which etiquerte and custom usually confine them. An Ohio lawyer who makes a specialty of collections calls attention to this fact by a novel device printed on his cards and letter heads. On a great red splotch intended to represent a drop of blood are the words, "Claims collected in cold blood," the capital "C" for the three first letters of those words being of sufficient size to encircle the other words.

In Maryville, Mo., a lawyer presents his portrait on his card, with the suggestire motto: "He that is not with you is against you. See me early."
